Roman Camp, Camulodunum

Monday 21st January 60AD

Dearest brother Bruchus

I trust I find you and your family well. Please send my greetings to dear mother. I hope she is feeling much better. I am well despite the cold weather. You can not imagine just how cold it is here in wildest Britain. My fingers are numb even though I am sitting by a warm fire. The locals say we will get snow soon which will change the view very much.

Today a new General, by the name of Cerealis, arrived to lead us. After our porridge breakfast, which I am now getting rather fed up with, he spoke to us. He is a tall, dark haired man and he has conquered many lands.

I have now saved a good deal of money. I may be homesick but a life in the great Roman army is a good one. In two years time I will be able to retire and return home with my riches and my pension. I hope and pray to the gods that I will stay safe and that my life is not taken by these savages.

My warmest love Marcus

Lesson 1

Can I find the synonyms to words?

This week, we will be continuing to look at letters from Roman Soldiers. We will be using this letter within our Guided Reading activities.

Word	Synonym	Which one?	Why?
trust	Belief, hope, denial
locals	Citizens, residents, village
conquered	defeated, captured, failed

Here are 3 words which are included within the letter. Can you pick the correct Synonym? (A synonym is a word which means the same as another word!)
Challenge: Can you explain your reasoning within the 'why?' box?

Lesson 2

Can we understand the emotions of the Roman soldier?

Do you remember how we found the different emotions within the letter last week? This week, you need to find the emotions and you need to tell me how you know this.

What do you think the Roman soldier might be feeling as he is writing this letter?

Emotion	Evidence	Why?

Challenge: Can you tell me your reasoning? Why does your evidence show the emotion?

Lesson 3
